kum^urī कुमरि or कुम्री f. N. of a certain bird, said to resemble the Indian cuckoo (kukil^u) (Śiv. 504). Probably fem. of kumor^u, q.v.

kumor^u कुमरु । पक्षिविशेषः m. N. of a certain small bird, with a high melodious voice. Cf. kāwa-kumor^u (Rām. 675).

kamrāz कमराज़ । देशविशेषः m. N. of one of the two great divisions of the Valley of Kashmīr. It comprises the districts on both sides of the river Vēth (or Jehlam) below Śrīnagar, while the other, Marāz (q.v.), comprises those above. Śrīnagar itself is called Yamrāz. The corresponding Skt. names are respectively Kramarājya and Maḍavarājya (RT.Tr. ii, 15, and II, 436). According to popular tradition, however, the valley was once divided between two brothers named, respectively, Kāmanadēva and Malhanadēva, after whom the tracts were named respectively Kāmarājya and Malhanarājya. For another popular etymology, see El. s.v. Kashmīr, and K.Pr. 138.

kamrōzī कमराज़ी adj. c.g. of or belonging to Kamrāz (see the preceding); N. of a certain violent wind, i.q. baḍa shāl, p. 82b, l. 28 (L. 465).

kana 2 कन् । कणः m. (for 1, see kan 1), a particle, atom, granule; esp. (in the pl.) the broken fragments of grain remain when rice is being husked, broken rice. —khēṭṭur° खेतूरु । कणसमिश्रन् f. a mixed pottage in which this broken grain is used instead of legumes, see khēṭṭur° 2. kana-phol° 2 फलु । कणवीचन् m. (for 1, see kan 1), a single fragment of this broken rice.

kana 3 कन् । कदा कालात् adv. inter. (for 1, see kan 1), from when? since when? (usually referring to a time long past). dēṭha-kana, a long time ago, from a long time ago, see dēṭha and Gr.Gr. 256). kana-pēṭha कन्-पेट । कदा प्रभृति adv., id. kana-shutun कन्-शुतुन । कदाकालादारभ्य adv., id.

kana 4 कन् pleon. suff. added to inter. adverbs, as in kēṭha-kana, how? (K. 272).

kān¹ 3 कनि postpos. governing abl. (of kin¹, of which it is a variant). It also governs the dative if the governed noun or pronoun is or refers to a human being. It indicates locality, as in kala-kān¹, at the head end (of an animal), and laṭi-kān¹, at the tail end (H. xi, 9); route or method, as in dāri-kān¹ (flung out) through the window (H. v, 4); and, esp., motion from, as in yēs-kān¹, from whom (it will escape) (H. ii, 8).

kani 2 कनि or kanān कनन् (of kin¹ and kun) postpos. governing abl. or, in the case of animate rational beings, the dat. Considered by native grammarians to be a sec. suff. It is used in various ways, viz.:—

(1) Governing the abl. of adverbs of place and other words, it indicates 'on to', and is u.w. vba. of putting, and the like, as in anda-kani, (put) on the outer side (p. 31b, l. 43); apāri-kani, (put) on the other side (p. 39a, l. 30); ōra-kani, (put) on there, on the far side, or (H. v, 2) in that direction (p. 41b, l. 21); bōna-kani, (put) down (p. 110b, l. 18); brōṭha-kani, (put) in front, (lay) before, (sit down) before (Rām. 268) (p. 128a, l. 39); hēri-kani, (put) at the top (p. 367a, l. 39); khōwari-kani, (put) on the left side (Śiv. 1090) (p. 425b, l. 15); pēṭha-kani, (put) above (everyone else), in the place of honour (Śiv. 1716), and so on.

Often the idea of 'putting', etc. is dropped, and the compound is used simply as an adv. or postpos. (governing dat.), as in anda-kani, outside (Śiv. 422); bōna-kani, below (H. iii, 2); brōṭha (or bōṇṭha) -kani, in front; garas brōṭha-kani, opposite the house (Gr.M.; so H. ii, 3; iii, 1; viii, 11, etc.); labi-kani, at the edge (Śiv. 842, 1445, 1570); pēṭha-kani, above, on the top of (H. viii, 1); wōzali-kani (a bite) on the red side (of an apple) (K.Pr. 238).

In all the above cases it may be put into the genitive, and then forms and adjective indicating 'of or belonging to such-and-such a position', as in anda-kanyuk° (f. -kanic°), of or belonging to what is outside, of or belonging to the outside; apāri-kanyuk°, of or belonging to the opposite side; ōra-kanyuk°, of or belonging to the far side; bōna-kanyuk°, of or belonging to below, nether; brōṭha-kanyuk°, of or belonging to what is in front; hēri-kanyuk°, of or belonging to something on the top, and so on.

(2) So far we have dealt with kani as a postposition governing the ablative. The word with which it is compounded, anda, apāri, ōra, and so forth is put in the ablative because it is governed by kani. But adverbs of place can be placed independently in the ablative, and then indicate motion from. Thus: ōr, there; ōra, from there; yōr, here; yōra, from here, and so on. kani may also be compounded with these ablatives without changing their meaning. Here it is not a question of kani as a postposition governing the ablative, but one of kani as an adverb being suffixed, without changing the meaning, to another adverb indicating motion from. Thus, ōra-kani, means not only 'on there' (under 1), but also 'from there' (Śiv. 1674, Rām. 946) under this rule. Similarly we have hōra-kani, from there, thence; kōra-kani, whence? (Rām. 949); pata-kani, from behind (Śiv. 1734); tōra-kani, thence; yōra-kani, hence, or (relative) whence (Gr.Gr. 159); brōṭha-kani, from opposite, as well as 'in front'. Similarly, with nouns, we have ōsa-kani (issuing) from the mouth (H. viii, 7); tālawa-kani (down) from the ceiling (H. viii, 8).

Similarly, as an adverb, kani is sometimes added pleonastically to an adverb of place, without causing a change of meaning. A good example is pēṭh-kani (s.v. pēṭh), above, in the upper portion; hence, in the place of honour (K.Pr. 103) (cf. pēṭha-kani, ab.); tami pēṭh¹-kani, on the top of that, in addition to that (H. iii, 8).

(3) As a postpos. kani may also indicate the reason for anything, as in ad¹-ri-kani (p. 15a, l. 45), (money) for the sweetmeats; ami-kani or awa-kani (p. 54b, l. 37; p. 55b, l. 36) for that reason, therefore; humi-kani or huwa-kani, therefore; kami-kani or kawa-kani, wherefore? tami-kani or tawa-kani, therefore; yēmi-kani or yēwa-kani, wherefore; yimi-kani or yiwa-kani, for this reason (Gr.Gr. 159).

(4) As a further development of this sense it may often be translated by 'for', in the sense of 'as a substitute for', 'instead of', 'in the place of', 'to serve as'. The following examples are mainly taken from Śiv., but the use runs through all literature; ashē-kani, (blood) instead of tears (Rām. 1483); bāri-kani, (silver used) as plaster (Rām. 568); dāji-kani, in place of a dowry (Śiv. 1677); dūpa-dūpa-k^o, instead of incense and lamps (Śiv. 1692); dāra-k^o, in place of wood (Śiv. 337); dāryan-k^o, to serve as casements (Śiv. 340); kaharau-k^o, serving as palankeen-bearers (Śiv. 84); laṭi-k^o laṭhul^u, a besom used as a tail (K.Pr. 124); mōkta-k^o, instead of a pearl (Śiv. 1145); mōkṭa-k^o, in place of a diadem (Śiv. 892); pakh^ocau-k^o, in place of the side-arms of a spinning-wheel (Śiv. 1014); pōshē-k^o, instead of a flower (Śiv. 863; cf. 1692); rūda-k^o, instead of rain (Śiv. 713); rathabāna-k^o, serving as a charioteer (Śiv. 1146); sumi-k^o, to serve as a bridge (Śiv. 1793); sōna-k^o, instead of gold (Śiv. 169); traṭi-k^o, serving as a necklace (Śiv. 1557); wardanau-k^o, (bark) for a bridal garment (Rām. 763); yikili-k^o, to serve for a beam (K.Pr. 41); yōñē-k^o, instead of a sacrificial thread (Śiv. 1014).

(5) As a postpos. governing a word signifying time or season, it indicates uncertainty (Gr.Gr. 159), as in ūtra-kani, about the day before yesterday (p. 68b, l. 21); az-kani, about to-day, perhaps to-day (p. 74a, l. 19); brōṭhus-kani, about, or perhaps, next year (p. 129a, l. 32); dahum-kani, on about the tenth lunar day (p. 201a, l. 43); dā-phulayⁱ-kani, at about the season of paddy flowering (dā-phulay, p. 230b, l. 12); hāra-kani, about the month of Hār (p. 343b, l. 44); har^oda-kani, at about autumn (p. 348a, l. 12); kōl¹-kēṭh-kani, on about the day after to-morrow (kōl¹-kēṭh, p. 434b, l. 9); pagāh-kani, perhaps to-morrow (pagāh).

(6) Examples of other relations indicated by this postposition are:—āmpa-kani, by means of beak-to-beak feeding (H. viii, 1; perhaps incorr. for kān¹ 3); kuni-kani, in any way (H. xii, 13); pata-kani, afterwards (H. x, 1); thūr^o-kani, (turning) backwards (H. v, 4).

In all the above (whether under head 2, 3, 4, 5, or 6) kani can be put into the genitive as under head 1, to indicate of or belonging to the motion from, reason, or indefinite time indicated.

kēn कन, an adverbial suff. added pleonastically in wuñ-kēn, now, at present (Gr.M.; Śiv. 634, 841, 1713, 1718-9; Rām. 852); a by-form of kani.

kin 2 किन् (Śiv. 1894-5), a by-form of kin¹, q.v.

kina किन। कन conj. or, as in suh kina bōh, he or I (Gr.M.; K.Pr. 82, 121, kih nah; W. 153; YZ. 110, 206; Śiv. 923, 1664; Rām. 280, 289, 445, 450, etc.; H. v, 7; viii, 3, 11; xii, 18, 19, 23).

kina कीन। कनकीयः m. hatred, rancour, malevolence, malice, spite, grudge, resentment, animosity (El. kin and kinah, Rām. 802).

kin¹ किनि or occasionally (e.g. Śiv. 1894-5) kin किन् or kān¹ कनि (q.v.)। पश्चतः postpos. (cf. kān¹ 3, kani 2, kun, kāñ 2, and kiñ), governing ag. or abl. or occasionally the ag. of the gen. (as in himāla-sānd¹-kin¹, Śiv. 728). There does not appear to be any distinction of meaning dependent on the case governed. The word primarily means 'from', as in achiv-kin¹, (tears falling) from the eyes (Rām. 284; 482, 1201, 1482); and^or¹-kin¹, from within (p. 32b, l. 17); apōr¹-kin¹, from the far side (p. 39a, l. 42);

In this sense it is added pleonastically to adverbs already signifying motion from (Gr.Gr. 158) as in ati-kin¹, from there, thence; huti-kin¹, thence; kati-kin¹, whence? tati-kin¹, thence; yēti-kin¹, whence (relative); yiti-kin¹, hence.

Sometimes it indicates progressive motion, the idea of 'from' being more or less dormant (cf. W. 97, kin, by the side of), as in bōn¹-kin¹, below, in the sense of going along the foot of anything (e.g. an embankment) (p. 110b, l. 24); brūth¹-kin¹, not only 'from before', as ab., but also 'ahead', in the sense of going along in front of another person; ōbī wati-kin¹, (to go) by the water route (Gr.M.); himāla-sānd¹-kin¹, via the Himālaya (Śiv. 728); kōōē-kin¹, (wandering) through lanes (Rām. 44); khala-kin¹, by way of the threshing floor (Śiv. 1476); khōshki wati-kin¹, (to go) by the land route (p. 419a, l. 20); kōlav-kin¹, (swimming) along the streams (Rām. 620); lōriy-kin¹, via Lār (Śiv. 1894, so K.Pr. 124, lari-kin¹).

With adverbs of place, it is even used pleonastically, and may altogether lose the root-idea of motion from. Thus, dachin¹-kin¹, on the right hand (Rām. 856), on the south (cf. ab.) (Rām. 1682); khōw¹-r¹-kin¹, on the left (Rām. 421, 856); nēbār¹-kin¹, on the outside (Rām. 1558); outwardly (Śiv. 764); pachim¹-kin¹, on the west (Rām. 1681); pūr¹-kin¹, on the east (Rām. 1681); wōtār¹-kin¹, on the north (Rām. 1682). Cf. buth¹-kin¹, face to face, bel.

It sometimes indicates reason or cause, as in ami-kin¹ or awa-kin¹ (p. 54b, l. 39; p. 55b, l. 39), for that reason, therefore; zānana-kin¹, through knowing (Gr.M.); āsana-kin¹, owing to being (so-and-so) (Gr.M.); bē-khabariyi-kin¹, owing to neglect (Gr.M.); anubawa-bāwa-kin¹, owing to the condition of perception (Śiv. 75, 982); murkha-bōz^a-kin¹, owing to foolish thought (Śiv. 881); nirmala rūpa-kin¹, owing to (thy) pure form (Śiv. 886).

It often signifies a means or method, as in achiv-kin¹, by means of the eyes; hence (to come) as fast as one can see, (to come) at once (Śiv. 717); barau-kin¹, (looking) through the doors (Śiv. 958); dāri-kin¹, (to go out, or look) through a window (dōr^a 3) (Gr.M., K.Pr. 254, Rām. 331); ak^ali-kin¹, by means of intelligence, to the best of one's intelligence (Rām. 546); kana-kin¹, by means of the ears, by hearing (Śiv. 1815); mana-tana-kin¹, (knowing) with mind and body (Śiv. 241); myōn¹-kin¹, through, by means of me (Gr.M.); yōga-kin¹, by means of ascetic practices (Śiv. 984); zēvi-kin¹, (singing) with the tongue (Śiv. 241).

Like the Hindi se, it is very often used to form adverbs of manner, as in āgyāyē-kin¹, according to a command (Śiv. 1051); and^a-r¹-kin¹, inwardly (as well as 'from the inside') (Śiv. 764); avēz^a-kin¹, wrongly (p. 71a, l. 7); bakta-bāganāyē-kin¹, by good fortune (Śiv. 411); buth¹-kin¹, impudently, audaciously (p. 142b, ll. 10 ff.); face to face (Rām. 152, 920); (falling) on the face (Rām. 5, 8, 926, 1176, 1180, 1201, 1242, 1354); dana-kin¹, (to return) like a hockey-ball (p. 222a, l. 38); hence, to retort; darma-kin¹, devoutly (p. 244b, l. 20) (Śiv. 428); dayāyē-kin¹, in a kindly way; as interj. please! have the kindness to (p. 267a, l. 3); hōshē-kin¹ with due care and attention (p. 353a, l. 27), carefully, heedfully (Rām. 1286); lōla-kin¹, affectionately (Śiv. 702); kuni-kin¹, in some way or other (p. 390a, l. 34) (Rām. 780); mana-kin¹, with the mind, with heart and soul (Śiv. 62, 272, 335, 1534); nāwa-kin¹, (known) by name (Śiv. 1289); parhēza-kin¹, cautiously (parhēz, caution) (Gr.M.); pāz¹-kin¹, in truth (Rām. 1149); rāma-rūpa-kin¹, in the person (or in the character) of Rāma (Śiv. 701; so 737, 778); ranga-kin¹, in appearance (Śiv. 1366); tawāzau-kin¹, politely (tawāza, politeness) (Gr.M.); zarra-kin¹, ever so little, hardly at all (zarra, an atom) (YZ. 231).

kōn (ʔ spelling) m. the branch of a tree (El. who gives kōn on p. 8, and kōi on p. 159). Perhaps the same as kōn^a 2.

kōna कन । जीरञ्जरोधनम् f.pl. the caulking of a boat. (This is done by packing in a kind of grass rope between the planking; cf. kōn^a 5 and kōth^a). —kādāñē —कदञ्ज । जीरञ्जपुरकञ्जनिष्कासनम् f.pl.inf. to pull or pick out the caulking between the planks of a boat; met. to pick holes in a person's character, to criticize unfavourably.

kōna कोन । किं न adv. how not? why not? (e.g. suh kōna yiyi, why will he not come?) (K.Pr. 30, kunah; 173, 251, 253, konah; YZ. 28; Śiv. 87, 309, 487, 1559, 1704; Rām. 76, 215, 352, 436, 664, 769, 1186, 1217, 1484, 1588-9, 1615-6, 1635, 1769, 1775; H. viii, 1; K. 141, 264, 341, etc.).

kōni कोनि, m.sg. abl. of kūn, q.v.

kōni कोनि adj. e.g. in Rām. 1141, lāl-i kōni, translated in the Skt. commentary by 'ratnam bahumūlyam', a jewel of great price. The phrase probably represents the Pers. لعل کانی, a ruby of a mine, i.e. a genuine, not artificial, ruby.

kon कुं । आह्वयकः m. a summoner, the man sent by her people to invite a young bride on a visit from her husband's house. (The invitation is a matter of some ceremony, and must be accompanied by a present to the husband, L. 262). kān-i-wōl कनि-वोल । आह्वयकः n.sg. (f. -wājēn -वाज्यन्), id.

kōn 1 कोनु । सूत्रगुटिका, सूत्रगोलकः m. a ball of thread as it is made on the spinning wheel (K.Pr. 259).

kōn 1 barana yini कनि वरन यिनि । आन्तरीयाङ्ग-नाड्यादिद्रुमिः m. pl. inf. pass. the balls of thread to become filled up; hence, met. (when a person has been reduced to a skeleton by famine or disease, and receives relief or is convalescent) the filling out of his internal organs and veins due to returned appetite and good food.

kōn 2 कोनु । वुद्रदण्डः m. a thin stick, a slight rod (cf. lashi-kōn, s.v. lashi); esp. one of the row of sticks set up in the ground by a weaver, on which he arranges the warp prior to putting it in a loom for weaving. Cf. gaba-kōn, p. 274b, l. 1.

kōn 3 कोनु in burza-kōn, a man whose profession it is to remove bark from birch-trees. See burza, p. 130b, l. 32. Cf. also lari-kōn, a house-broker, s.v. lūr.

kōn 4 कोनु । काणः adj. (f. kōn काजू), one-eyed, monocular, blind of one eye (K.Pr. 1, 14, 66, 95, 100, 249); cf. cipa-kōn and dōla-kōn (p. 211b, l. 16). —o often used to indicate clumsiness, or the like, as in atha-kōn, p. 59a, l. 33. —kalam कलम । काशीभूता लेखनी m. a one-eyed pen, i.e. a pen of which one side of the nib is damaged.

kōn-bāgay कनि-बागय । काणो विभागः f. a one-eyed division, an unfair division (looking more in one direction than another; hence, giving more to one person than another).

kāni-āch-gāsh कनि-अक्षि-गाश । काणाक्षः प्रकाशः m. the gleam of a one-eyed eye, i.e. of the eye of a one-eyed man (a very rare thing, and difficult to bring about); hence, met. used with reference to some object which is rare or difficult of accomplishment.

kōn 5 कोनु । नीरन्ध्रत्वं प्राप्तः adj. (f. kōn काजू), having holes or orifices filled or choked up (e.g. a sieve choked up with dirt). Cf. kōna.

kun 1 कुन, incorr. for kūn, q.v. (Śiv. 329).

kun 2 (? spelling) in kōkar-kun (L. 366), fowl-cholera, see p. 432a, l. 37.

kun 3 कुन । प्रति postpos. (cf. kani 2 and kin) governing the dat. (Gr.M.), also used as a sec. suff. not governing any case (Gr.Gr. 160, Gr.M.); towards, in the direction of, to (W. 97). The following examples are taken principally from Śiv. and Rām. u.w. vbs. of motion (Śiv. 341, 532, 538, 654, 1010, 1193, 1196, 1209, 1275, 1437, 1555, 1560, 1709, 1722-3, 1745, 1860; Rām. 114, 205, 249, 388, 443, 495, 521, 750, 1193, 1207; H. viii, 6, 11).

(a) As postpos. :—ath-kun, towards that, in that direction (p. 55b, l. 20) (Gr.Gr. 160); biyē-kun, (going) anywhere else (H. xii, 4); dakhēnas-kun, (reached to the south) (Rām. 632); danjē-kun wuchun, to look towards the condition (p. 226a, l. 8), to calculate resources; kōli-kun, towards the river (p. 437b, l. 42) (Gr.Gr. 161); mājē-kun, towards the mother (mōj) (Gr.Gr. 161); mōlis-kun, towards the father (Gr.Gr. 161); tas-kun, (love) towards him (YZ. 77); tath-kun, towards that, in that direction (Gr.Gr. 160); tē-kun phir, she turned towards thee (Rām. 1275); wārē-kun, towards the garden (Gr.Gr. 161).

(b) As suffix :—ākash-kun, towards, or up to, the sky (Rām. 924, 1055); andar-kun, to within (p. 32a, l. 42); apōr-kun, to beyond (apōr); ōr-kun, in that direction (Gr.Gr. 160); ot-kun, in that direction (p. 53a, l. 13); bōn-kun, downwards (p. 110b, l. 8) (Gr.Gr. 161); brōth-kun, towards the front (p. 128a, l. 23) forwards; in future (Śiv. 1756); gām-kun, towards the village (p. 286b, l. 30) (Gr.Gr. 160); gara-kun, towards the house (Gr.Gr. 160, Rām. 1370); but garas-kun (Rām. 1090, 1693); hyor-kun, upwards (p. 367a, l. 34) (Rām. 1410, contrasted with tāl-kin, from below); kōr-kun, whither? (Rām. 513); nagar-kun, (went) to the city (Rām. 1554); tūr-kun, thither verily (Rām. 1254); wōtur-kun, towards the north (Rām. 632; cf. 783); yipōr-kun, in this direction (W. 95); yāra-sond-kun, in the direction of the friend's (house) (H. x, 11).

From the idea of motion towards, there is developed the meaning of 'to' after verbs of saying, addressing, etc. (Śiv. 79, 86, 394, 429, 555, 708, 941, 1007, 1252, 1318; Rām. 55, 198, 209, 220, 252, 307, 371, 373, 379, 442, etc.; H. v, 2; vii, 4, 20, etc.), and various other dative senses, such as (making a bow) to (Śiv. 156); (looking towards or at) (Śiv. 584, 758, 760, 768, 1008, 1593, 1737; Rām. 245, 535-6, 670, 825, 980, 1048, 1084-5, etc.); (showing) to (H. vi, 5); (becoming manifest) to (L.V. 22, Śiv. 171); (turning the ear) to (Śiv. 544); (turning the mind) to, (having and inclination) to, (or taste) for, etc. (Śiv. 596, 750, 754, 1181, 1293, 1751); (devoting the mind) to (Rām. 565, 1134, 1673); (affection) to, (longing) for (YZ. 77; H. iii, 7; vii, 3); (good intentions) to (Rām. 521); (do service) to (Rām. 627); (give welcome) to (Rām. 751); (promise) to (Rām. 627); (arrive) at (Rām. 1167, 1428; H. x, 5); (happen) to (Rām. 536, 1116); (attach) to (Rām. 993, 1178); (wield a weapon) against (Rām. 40, 999); (go for refuge) to, (take refuge) with (Rām. 1291, 1478, 1584); (a test) in reference to, (a test) of (Rām. 459); (limbs pressed) to (limb) (Rām. 1117); akh akis-kun, one to, or against, the other (Rām. 518, 923).

A further development is the meaning 'in', 'at', as in:—akith-kun, on one side (H. xii, 14); ōr-kun, on the far side, over there, as well as 'in that direction'; andas-kun, at the end (H. xii, 6); ath-kur, there, as well as 'in that direction' (p. 55b, l. 20); brōth- (or bōnth-) kun, in front (H. i, 8; K. 555), as well as 'in a forward direction' (p. 128a, l. 23); dachan-kun, on the right-hand side (dachyun^a) (W.); hyor^a-kun or hyūr^a-kun, at the top, as well as 'upwards' (p. 367a, l. 34); khōwur-kun, on the left (W. 129); kōr-kun or kot^a-kun, where? as well as 'whither?' path-kun, at the back, behind (Śiv. 1194; H. v, 8); afterwards (H. iii, 5; v, 5); finally, ultimately (Śiv. 1344, 1901); (with verb in future) behind (the present time); afterwards, in the future (Śiv. 70, 311); (with verb in past) behind (the present time), formerly, in the past (Śiv. 72, 425, 1908; K. 347); pēth-kun, above, in the place of honour (K. 476, 516).

kun 4 कुन्, adv. anywhere, at any place (Śiv. 1428), i.q. kuni 1, q.v.

kūn कून । कोणः m. a corner (El., Gr.Gr. 18). —yun^a —युनु । वक्त्रीभवन्म m.inf. a corner to come; in a machine, a driving band to become displaced.

kuna 1 कुन । शकविशेषः f. a certain potherb, growing wild amidst other potherbs; it is also used medicinally in colds and inflammatory diseases, being considered cool and dry; it is said to be the same as the kulfa of India, Portulaca oleracea or purslane. It is believed to grow with particular freedom in famine years, when it is used for food (L. 71).

kuna 2 कुन, in kuna-pōth^ar कुन-पाथर् । शकुनादिदेयम् m. a present given to artisans employed in making the necessary materials on the occasion of a son's marriage; the present is given for good luck, and especially by a man who has only one son.

kuni 1 कुनि । कदाचित्, क्वापि adv. ever, at any time (Gr.M., K. 504); at some time, sometimes; anywhere, in any place (Gr.M.; W. 95; Śiv. 1428, kun; 23, 97, 846, 1540, 1666, 1757, kuni; Rām. 1158; H. viii, 7; K. 82, 152, etc.); somewhere (H. viii, 7); at all, in any respect (H. v, 6; viii, 1, 2, 9; xii, 1, 22; K. 641); prath.kuni, everywhere (Gr.M.); har.kuni, everywhere (W. 95); kuni-kani, in any way (H. xii, 13); with emph. y, kuniy, at any time (Rām. 1654); anywhere (Rām. 91) (El. kuniy). —kuni -कुनि । कदाचित्कदाचित् adv. sometimes, now and then (Gr.M.; K. 476, 480, 963, 992), wherever, in every place that (Rām. 739). —na -न adv. at no time; nowhere (El.; W. 95; L.V. 9, 11, nā kunē, m.c.; K.Pr. 201, nah.kune).

kun^a कुनु, sometimes (e.g. Śiv. 329) written kun कुन् । एककः card. (f. kuñ^a कुञ्), one, only one, a single (Gr.Gr. 81; K.Pr. 119, 220; Śiv. 1239, 1544, 1561, 1622; Rām. 410); only, the only [as in kun^a nēchyuw^a, an only son; so kun^a bokt^a, the only devotee (K. 828)]; exactly one (Gr.M.); one and the same (Rām. 301); alone, by oneself (YZ. 436, Rām. 1623, K. 895); only, bare (El.). (K.Pr. spells kuñ^a, kuni; and the dat. kuñē, kunih.) kun^a zon^a कुनु ज़नु । एकाकी adj. etc.); to make, create (K. 210, 577); to make, draw (a line) (Gr.M.); to avail; to render, to cause to become, to turn or change (something into) (passim, e.g. Śiv. 114, 339, 712, 751, 846, 859, 1013, 1016, 1018, 1030-1, 1046, 1308, 1349, 1491, 1527, etc.; Rām. 185, 279, 306, 457, 554, 744, 839, 844, 1018, 1145, 1203, 1263, etc.; K. passim; H. x, 7; xii, 15); to make or give (a name) (Rām. 85, 534, 1282, 1296); to make a marriage, to marry a wife (Rām. 126, 136, 324, 328, 330; H. viii, 1, 2); to make (a sound), utter (speech, etc.) (Rām. 103, 389, 789, 1611); to make an utterance, to repeat words, as in shiwa shiwa karān, uttering the cry of 'Śiva, Śiva' (L.V. 65); Lālī Lālī karān, crying out 'Lālī, Lālī' or 'it is Lal, it is I Lal' (L.V. 105). Similarly Śiv. 29, 75, 127, 154, 378, 434, 539, etc.; Rām. 240, 1021, 1403).

This verb is very commonly used with a substantive or adjective to form a nominal compound verb. Such so-called compounds are often hardly compounds at all, each member retaining its own meaning, as in amal karun, to do action (p. 28a, l. 9), to act, or with pēth, to act upon (a request), to comply (Gr.M.); āradan kariūn, to do worship, to worship (p. 42b, l. 45) (id.); prakhṛt karun, to make manifest. At other times the compound acquires a special meaning, as in an karun, to eat food (p. 29b, l. 21); khabar kariūn, to inform (p. 391a, l. 26); khās karith, especially, mainly (p. 417a, l. 18); mihrbōnī karith, please! Such compounds will be found under the respective substantives or adjectives which form the first member.

With an adjective signifying nationality, this verb signifies 'to speak the language of the country referred to', as in angrīzī karun, to do the Englishman, to speak English; kōshur karun, to play the Kāshmirī man, to speak Kāshmirī (El.).

karun hyot^u-mot^u करन् ह्युतु-मंतु । कर्तुमारब्धः adj. (f. kariūn^u hēṣ^u-mūṣ^u करजू ह्युतु-मंतु), begun to be done, commenced. —kyut^u—कितु । करणार्थकः adj. (f. kariūn^u kiṣ^u करजू किचू), for being done, intended to be done, suitable to be done (cf. Gr.Gr. 115).

kārī kārī करि करि । कृत्वा कृत्वा freq. part. doing (anything) over and over again (Śiv. 349).

kor^u-mot^u कर्-मंतु । कृतः perf. part. (f. kūr^u-mūṣ^u कर्-मंतु), done, made, etc., as ab.

karon^u करन् or karun^u करन्, fut. pass. part. to be done, necessary to be done (Śiv. 1230, 1305, 1749; Rām. 1781); that which must be done, a thing determined or predestined (Śiv. 67, 317; Rām. 1671).

karan-grākh करन्-याख् । करणशीलः n.ag. (f. -grākañ -याकञ्), a doer, etc., one who does, etc., habitually, as ab. (Gr.Gr. 106, 193). karan-hār करन्-हार । करणयोग्यः adj. c.g. worthy of being done, fit to be done, necessary to be done (cf. Gr.Gr. 129). —wōl^u -वोलु । कारकः n.ag. (f. -wājēñ -वाज्यञ्), a doer, a maker, etc., as ab. (Gr.Gr. 106, 193; Śiv. 1287).

karana karān करन करान्, this form implies a condition of difficulty, as in suh chuh karana karān magar wādī wādī, he works indeed, but he does it weeping (W. 87).

karanī करनी । कर्तव्यः impers. fut. part., c.g. necessary to be made, to be made (K. 72); necessary to be done (Gr.Gr. 111).

karōnī करानि adverbial part. on doing, etc., at the time of doing, etc. (Gr.Gr. 197).

karith करिथ्, having done. In the old Kāshmirī of L.V. used instead of the modern kēth as a suffix of the conjunctive participle, as in hēth karith, having taken (L.V. 12), dith karith, having given (id.). In nominal compounds, karith often gives an adverbial force, as in sakthī karith, with great difficulty, by using extreme measures (Rām. 433, 909).

kēth 1 कथ postpos. governing dat. in, as in athas kēth, in the hand (K.Pr. 29, YZ. 242, Śiv. 620), thālas kēth, in a dish; nāvi kēth, in a boat (Śiv. 1589). Generally speaking it can only be used with words signifying a receptacle or a conveyance. Thus, we cannot say garas kēth, in a house, or mūlas kēth, in a root, because a house or a root is not used as a receptacle for putting things into. For this purpose a horse or the like, is looked upon as a conveyance, and we can say guris kēth, which must be translated 'on horseback'; similarly, nakhas-kēth, on the shoulder (Rām. 890); khōni-kēth (carrying a child) on the haunch (H. xi, 13) (Gr.Gr. 43; Gr.M.; W. 97, kēt; Śiv. 12, 245, 286, 543, 967, etc.; Rām. 151, 305, 625, 665, etc.);

-kana -कन, or -kanan -कनन, or -kanas -कनस् । कथम् adv., i.q. kētha (Gr.M.; K. 272, -kana).

-kinⁱ -किनि, how? by what means? by what manner of means? (K. 614). -pōthⁱ -पाठि or -pōthin -पाठिन । केन प्रकारेण adv. in what manner? how? (El. kitha pāt and kitha pōth; Gr.Gr. 153; Gr.M.; K.Pr. 15, kīthā pāthi; W. 96, kēta pōth; Śiv. 171, 743, 755, 763, 820, 1251, etc. -pōthⁱ, with emph. y, kēthay-pōthⁱ, 576; Rām. 53-4, 111, 412, etc.,

-pōthⁱ; 951, 1362, -pōthin; K. 9, 669, 799, -pōthⁱ; H. iii, 9; v, 8, etc., -pōthⁱ). Occasionally used indefinitely like kētha-tām-pōthⁱ, bel., in some way or other (Rām. 1111). -sana -सन, -sanā-pōthⁱ -सना-पाठि, or -sanā-pōthin -सना-पाठिन । कथमिव adv., i.q. the preceding, but the question is asked with a shade of doubt, quasi 'I wonder how', 'I should like to know how'

(K. 165, 213, 328, 1134, -sana). -tām-pōthⁱ

-ताम-पाठि, or -tāmāth-pōthⁱ -तामथ-पाठि, or -tān-pōthⁱ -तान-पाठि, or -tānēth-pōthⁱ -तानथ-पाठि (or

-pōthin -पाठिन may be substituted throughout for -pōthⁱ -पाठि । केनापि प्रकारेण indef. adv. in some way, in any way, somehow, anyhow (Gr.Gr. 154). The underlying idea in the mind of the speaker is a question with doubt, as in, e.g. 'did he do it in any way? if so, how?'

kēthau कथौ or kēthō कथो । कथं भो: adv. how? used in addressing a person at some distance kyāh काह । किम pron. inter. [In the sing. this pron. is an. or inan., and the an. forms in some cases distinguish between the masc. and fem. genders. The inan. forms when used as substantival pronouns make no distinction of gender; but, when used as an adjectival pronoun, in the nom. either the inan. or the an. form may be used in agreement with an inan. noun. If the an. form is used it agrees with the noun in gender. In the plur. there is no distinction between an. and inan., and gender is distinguished only in the nominative.]

The gen. sg. and pl. is used only as a substantival pronoun. When used as an adjectival pronoun in agreement with a noun in the gen. sg., the pronoun is put into the an. dat. if the noun is an. masc. (as in kamis nēcivī-sonḍ^a, of what boy?). It is put into the inan. abl. if the noun is inan. masc. (as in kamī k^asmuk^a, of what kind?), and is put into the an. fem. dat. if the noun is fem., whether an. or inan. (as in kamī kōrē-hond^a, of what girl? kamī kāmē-hond^a, of what work?). In the plural there is no difficulty. If the pronoun is adjectival and in agreement with any noun in the gen. plur., it is, as usual, put into the dative plural, as in kaman nēcivēn-hond^a, of what boys? kaman kōrēn-hond^a, of what girls? kaman kāmēn-hond^a, of what works?

In the an. dat. sg., kamis is used for both masc. and fem. if the pronoun is used substantivally; but if it is used adjectivally, in agreement with an an. fem. noun, the fem. form is kamī, not kamis. The inan. dat. sing. is used both substantivally and adjectivally.

Sg. nom. an. m. kus कुस्, kus^a कुसु (poet.); f. kōssa क्रस्स; inan. kyāh काह: dat. an. (m. and f.) kamis कमिस्, kas कस्; f. (only as adj.) kamī कमि; inan. kath कथ: gen. an. (m. and f.) kāmī-sonḍ^a कमि-सण्ड, kasond^a कसण्ड, kas कस्; inan. kamyuk^a कमुकु, kawuk^a कवुक: ag. an. and inan. m. kāmī कमि; f. kamī कमि: abl. an. and inan. (m. and f.) kamī कमि, kawa कव. Pl. nom. m. kam कम; f. kama कम: dat. (m. and f.) kaman कमन्: gen. (m. and f.) kaman-hond^a कमन्-हण्ड, kahond^a कहण्ड, ag. and abl. (m. and f.) kamau कामौ, kamav कामव. For most of the above forms see Gr.Gr. 89 and Gr.M. See also the references bel.

In the word kyāh काह, the final h is often dropped, so that we also find kyā का. In the Persian character the word is generally written kyah or kēh کیه (Gr.M., K.Pr. 15).]

Who? which? what? dētha kyāh, a great deal; see dētha. As an adjective kyāh in all its adjectival forms is sometimes used in an exclamatory sense, i.e. what! in the sense of our 'what a!', 'how wonderful!', 'how beautiful!', 'how extraordinary!', and so on, as in kamī lōla, with what (passionate) love (Śiv. 957; so L.V. 78; Śiv. 426, 661, 812, 814, 943, etc.; Rām. 4, 22, 155, 175, 556, 769; K. 223). Cf. the use of the word kyāh as an interjectional adv., bel., p. 500a, l. 12.

Or, again, this pron. may be used contemptuously to mean 'what?', in the sense of 'nothing at all' or 'very petty', as in tōmbi kus kan, who (i.e. no one) will pierce the ears (Śiv. 1290); wuñ kyāh pēv, now what has fallen? i.e. what has fallen now is a mere nothing (Śiv. 1294; so Śiv. 1811); wāti kas and, for whom (i.e. for no one) will she reach completion? (Rām. 128).

This pronoun, compounded with the indefinite pronoun kūh, itself takes an indefinite meaning, as in kūh kus, anyone whatever (Rām. 715); kūh kyāh, some kind or other of (Rām. 231, 373); kūh kath jāyē, in any place, anywhere (Rām. 689); kūh kamī sāta, at any time (Rām. 836).

kēh कह for kyah (i.e. kyāh, see ab.) in the following:—kēhō कहो or kēhō कहो । किं भो: adv. an inter. particle, i.q. kyā and kyāh, bel., used familiarly in addressing a younger or inferior male; cf. the next and kyā-bā, bel. kas कस् an. sg. dat. to whom? as subst. (L.V. 17, 21, 33; Śiv. 278, 286, 583, 738, etc.; Rām. 218, 340, 447; 1620 f.; K. 290, 304, 545, 581, 846). In Rām. 1347 kas and kamis are used side by side with identical meanings. As adj. (Rām. 351 m., 1319 f.). Often used as an an. sg. gen. (or dat. of possession) (Śiv. 91, 189, 243, 324, 585, etc.; Rām. 1576; K. 175, 1057, 1111, etc.). Used with force of acc. whom? (Śiv. 249, 534, 1298, etc.; Rām. 1307). The use of this form as an adj. is rare. The only instance noted is kas dēvas, to what god? (Śiv. 243).

kasū कसू, i.q. kas, with interjectional suffix ū, to whom? (Rām. 211, 1532). Cf. kamū, ab.

kōsa कस poet. for kōssa. See kus, bel. (Rām. 1609).

kus कुस् or (e.g. L.V. 39) kus^a कुस (f. kōssa कस्सा, or (poet.) kōsa कस, or (vill.) kusa कुस. See kōssa, bel.), sg. nom. m. an. (and, as adj., also inan.) who? as subst. (L.V. 7, 78, 88; Śiv. 47, 243-9, 432, 472, etc.; Rām. 176, 238, 293, 738, etc.; K. 31, 98, 327, etc.; H. xi, 2; xii, 1); as adj. an. (L.V. 14, 39; Śiv. 1887; Rām. 882, 1324); as adj. inan. (L.V. 78; Śiv. 1062, 1226, 1770, 1831, 1912; Rām. 1605; K. 1161). With emph. y, kusuy, who really? (H. xi, 19). -hyuh^a ह्युह। कीदृश इव adj. (f. kōssa hish^a कस्स हिशू), like what? what kind of? (Gr.M.). -kus कुस् who or which of several (f. sg. nom. kōssa kōssa कस्स कस्स, etc.; H. x, 6, kusa kusa कुस कुस). -sana सन or -sanā सना। कः स्मित् pron. inter. (f. kōssa sana कस्स सन or -sanā सना; inan. kyāh sana क्याह सन or -sanā सना, q.v., bel.), i.q. kus, but implying a shade of doubt (Gr.Gr. 180 ff.), quasi 'I wonder what', 'what kind of' (L.V. 39, kawa sana, adj. inan. sg. abl.; Śiv. 1600, kami sana; Rām. 1408, kus sanā wādur, I wonder what monkey (this is); so K. 287, kōsa sana). Hence, often used indefinitely, 'I wonder who,' i.e. 'someone or other' (Rām. 834, m. sg. ag. kāmī sanā). —tām —ताम् । कश्चित् m. (f. kōssa tām कस्स ताम्, etc.), i.q. kus, but implying a doubt if there is anything to ask, as in kus tām āv (did anyone come? If so) who came? (Gr.Gr. 256); someone or other, someone indefinite (W. 137; L.V. 86; K.Pr. 164; Śiv. 1725, 1861); used sometimes as an indefinite pronoun, or as an indefinite article, a, a certain (Gr.M.). —tāmāth —तामथ्, —tāñ —ताञ्, or —tāñēth ताञ्थ । कश्चित् (f. kōssa tāmāth कस्स तामथ्, etc.), id. (Śiv. 85 —tāñ; Rām. 1397, kam tāñ, I wonder who = some unknown people; H. v, 4, —tāñ; viii, 10, —tāñ).

kawā कवा । केन हेतुना भोः by what? how? i.q. kawa, but used when addressing a male equal or inferior. Cf. kaway, bel.

kawau कवौ, or kawō कवो (= kawa, with interj. au, ō), Ō why? (YZ. 270, kawō, addressed by a woman to her beloved). kawau-bāpath कवौ-बापथ् adv. O why? (Rām. 407, addressed by a man to a man).

kuwa कुव adv. by what means? how? poet. for kawa (H. v, 9).

kaway कवय् । केन हेतुना भोः adv. by what? how? i.q. kawa, but used in addressing a female equal or inferior; cf. kawā, ab. (Śiv. 578). —bāpath —बापथ् adv. for what? why? used as ab. (Rām. 1017–22).

kawuk^u कवुकु । कथं नाम (नहीति) adj. (f. kawūc^u कवूच), sg. gen. inan. of what? genl. used as adv. how? (incredulously); hence, equivalent to a negative.

kyā क्या, i.q. kyāh (H. vi, 5), but, when so spelt, generally used as a mere inter. particle, indicating a question. Occasionally in this way it has the force of a particle of emphasis, as in yihuy kyā gav Sadāsiv, this person is no other than Sadāsiva, or who else is it but Sadāsiva (Śiv. 821). —bā —बा । किं भातः adv., i.q. kyā, but employed only when addressing a brother or other male person of equal rank; cf. kēhō, ab., and the two next. —biñ —विञ् । किं भगिनि adv., i.q. kyā, but used only in addressing an elder sister or other female of superior rank; cf. the preceding and kēhay, ab. —sa —स or —sō —सा । किमङ्ग adv., i.q. kyā, but used only in addressing an elder male, or one of superior rank. Also, i.q. kyā sana, bel. (Gr.Gr. 181). —sana —सन or —sanā —सना । किं खित् adv. an inter. particle, i.q. kyā, but indicating doubt, as in kyā sana khēwān chwā or kyā sanā khēwān chuh, what, is he really eating? kyā sanā tāti āsyā, I wonder will he be there (Gr.Gr. 180). —zan —जन् । किं नाम adv. what like? what sort of?

kyāh क्याह or (see ab., p. 497b, l. 4) kyah or kēh कैह । किम् inan. sg. nom. what? As subst. (L.V. 21, 34, 42, etc.; K.Pr. 15; YZ. 146, kyah; 233, kyāh; Śiv. 58, 158, 160, 164, 203, 225, 323, etc.; Rām. 122, 157, 234–5, 238, etc.; K. 34, 39, 49, 141, etc.; H. ii, 2, 4, 11; iii, 4, 8, 9, etc.). kēh na ta kyāh,

(there is) nothing, so what (is there), i.e. all is vanity (L.V. 19). As adj. (Śiv. 83, 160, 426, 643, 721 (fem. inan.), 908, 910, 923, etc.; Rām. 10, 51, 152, 158, 160, 164, etc.; K. 317, 361, 524, 528, etc.).

The word kyāh or kyā or kyah is often used as a mere inter. particle, indicating that a question is asked. Thus, kyāh chuh murṣ karān, does he make images? (Gr.Gr. 199; so, Gr.M., kyā or kyāh; L.V. 18, 66; Śiv. 710, 874, 913, 1562; Rām. 11, 48, 756, 1367, 1629; K. 572, 1101, 1152; H. vii, 27, 28).

Again, it is sometimes used as an interjectional adv., as in jān kyāh, how good! (L.V. 89); kyāh zabar, how excellent! (W. 101; so, Śiv. 436, 499, 573, 870; Rām. 796, 892, 1197, 1200; H. vii, 27, 28); of kyāh kūt, how many! (Śiv. 742) and p. 485a, l. 29. Or it may be used adverbially in the sense of 'how', introducing a subordinate clause, as in wuch rath kyāh chuh pashpān, see the blood, how it is flowing, i.e. see how it bleeds (Gr.M.; so, Rām. 25, 686, 1147, 1221, 1224, 1338, 1353, 1372, 1380, 1522, 1751; K. 1136). Or it may be used as the equivalent of kyāzi (q.v.), why? (L.V. 67, 74; Rām. 222, 257, 347, 407, 1628, 1702, 1706; H. x, 14). Occasionally, like kyā, ab., it is little more than a particle of emphasis, as in tami kyāh kor, what did she do? i.e. it is no other than she who did it (Rām. 1145; so, H. v, 8, 9; viii, 1; ix, 10, etc.). yit kyāh, here, in fact; here, you see (H. x, 12); yit kyāh . . . āt kyāh, here, you see on the one hand . . . there, on the other hand, you see (H. viii, 13); ada kyāh, then of course, of course, certainly (H. viii, 11; xii, 4).

Occasionally kyāh is used with a disjunctive force, as in kyāh Kikī kyāh Kusalyā, whether Kaikēyī or Kausalyā (Rām. 301); mōj kyā māś, mother or aunt (Rām. 734; similarly, Rām. 1038; H. iv, 7), and in kyāh . . . ada yā, whether . . . or (Rām. 845).

kyāh kētham क्योह कथम । किं कथम adv. what's its name, what d'ye call it, u.w. ref. to something hitherto unknown, and which cannot be described by any name. —sana —सन (Rām. 78) or —sanā —सना, see kus sana, ab., I wonder what (Rām. 78, 1391, 1493); as adj. (Rām. 202; K. 608, 919); as adv. I wonder how, or why (Rām. 1348, 1493). To this another inter. is sometimes added, as in kyāh sanā kyāh, I wonder what on earth (Rām. 1306, 1421); kyā sanā kus, I wonder who on earth (Rām. 1366); kyā sanā kām, I wonder by whom on earth (Rām. 596); kyāh sanā kati, I wonder where on earth (Rām. 221, 253); kyā sanā kyuth hyuh, I wonder what kind of (Rām. 1074).

—tām —ताम or —tāmāth —तामथ । अज्ञातप्रायम् pron. what? used when the speaker is in doubt as to whether there is anything to ask, as in kyāh tām wonun, what did he say? i.e. did he say anything? Here the speaker did not notice at the time what the man said, and afterwards recalls the fact of his perhaps having spoken, and, being in doubt, asks the question (Gr.Gr. 256); something or other, something indefinite (L.V. 86); wuchiv tām kyāh tām korus thal, behold what deceit he did to him! behold how he deceived him! (Rām. 1417). —tān —तान् or —tānēth —तान्थ । अज्ञातप्रायम्, id. (Gr.Gr. 256; Śiv. 85; Rām. 146; K. 88, 181; all —tān); something or other (Rām. 432); wuchun gāṭul chuh kyāh tān, see (i.e. test) how clever he is (Rām. 129).

kyuh tām क्युह ताम, —tāmāth —तामथ, —tān —तान्, or —tānēth —तान्थ । कथयितुमशक्यः adj. that which cannot be described by any definitions, indefinable (cf. kyuth tām, p. 502b, l. 4).

kyāwu क्योवु (L.V. 19) or kyōh क्योह (L.V. 3, 5, 65), an old form of kyāh, used as a kind of disjunctive conjunction in the sense of 'whether . . . or', or 'as well as', in the phrase dēn kyāwu (or kyōh) rāth, whether by day or by night, by day as well as by night, day and night, continually.

kyul क्युल or क्युल । कीलकः, अयःशङ्कुः m. (sg. dat. kilis किलिस), a wooden peg (e.g. a tethering-peg or a tent-peg) (El., Gr.Gr. 14); an iron nail, a spike (El.; Gr.M.; L. 462, kuil) (cf. nar-māda-k, s.v. nar 2); met. (like our 'thorn') something that gives intense pain (cf. hyuk, p. 364a, l. 37); (abusively) a troublesome child; cf. kij. kil-tūr किलि-चूर । कीलकचौरः m. a terribly daring and thorough thief (quasi one who, when robbing a house, carries away even the nails that hold it together).

kōyul क्योयुल or क्युयुल । पक्षिविशेषः m. a certain bird, described as red in colour, about the size of a sparrow, and as uttering a deep cry when flying up into the air.

kyom क्योम । किमिः m. (sg. dat. kēmis कमिस), a worm, a maggot, a caterpillar, insect (El. kyom; Gr.M.; K.Pr. 81, 183; H. xii, 3, 4) (cf. nījē-k, s.v. nīj 1, and nāra-k, s.v. nār). kēm-gōb

kōyim कायिम, often written kōim काइम تائم adj. e.g. fixed, established (Gr.M.). -mukām -मुकाम تائم m. one who acts in the place of another, a locum-tenens (Gr.M.).

kōyimī कायिमी, often written kōimī काइमी (for تائم) adj. e.g., i.q. the preceding (K.Pr. 216). Properly (تائمی) subst. f. fixity, permanence, but used ab. as adj.

kaymuh कयमुह । क्षेत्रविशेषः m. N. of a considerable village of Kashmir (the ancient Katimuṣa) on the left bank of the river Vēshau (ancient Viśōka) (RT.Tr. ii, 55).

kiyāmāth कियामथ قیامت m. (sg. dat. kiyāmatas कियामतस् قیامتس), the resurrection, the last day (K.Pr. 214); confusion, tumult, uproar, an extraordinary to-do (K.Pr. 206).

kēna-bob कन-बब । जलफलभेदः m. N. of a certain aquatic fruit, found growing in lakes, described as red, but white inside, and containing many small seeds. -rab -रब । घनपट्टः f. the soft, but not liquid, mud first formed on a road by a slight shower; (in building) mud used as mortar.

kāyun कायुन । आलस्यकरणम् conj. 1 (1 p.p. kōy कोयु), to make lazy, to make a person work as if he were lazy; to make (oneself) lazy, to 'ca' canny' (Gr.Gr. xiv); to cause procrastination.

kyūr क्यूर । कूपः m. (sg. dat. kiris कीरिस), a well, i.q. krūr 1, q.v. (El., K.Pr. 155).

kayir कयीर । ककणः a certain bird (? a kind of partridge), described as haunting mountain forests, as having a variegated white and yellow plumage and a sweet voice.

kāyor 1 कायूर, kāyur कायुर्, sometimes written kāyir 1 कायिर् । काष्ठभेदः m. the wood of the yōr, or Himalayan blue pine (El. kāyūr or kāiar, Pinus excelsa; Gr.Gr. 139; K.Pr. 101; L. 79, 80, kairu; 456, kayur). This wood is very soft and easy to pierce; the word is hence used met. to indicate a person who is 'soft', i.e. weak, powerless, unresisting; cf. kāyor 2 and also āda-kāyur, p. 11a, l. 50. The shavings of this wood are used for torches (L. 80), and its fire is not lasting (K.Pr. 101). kāyiri-ṭān कायिरि-तान f. charcoal made from the wood of the pine-tree. It is used for making gunpowder (El.), and is much esteemed by blacksmiths (L. 80).

kāyor 2 कायूर or kāyur 2 कायुर्, sometimes written kāyir 2 कायिर् । निःसारः, अलसः adj. (f. kāyūr कायूर, also written kāyir कायिर्), weak, feeble; (of a human being) weak, feeble, inert, lazy. Cf. kāyor 1 and also the Skt. katarah.

kāyarun कायरुन । निःसारीभवनम् conj. 3 (2 p.p. kāyaryōv कायर्याव), to be or become soft, weak; (of a human being or animal) to be or become soft, weak, powerless, inert, lazy.

kyus क्युस । जलपक्षिभेदः m. (sg. dat. kisis किसिस्), a certain aquatic bird, the teal (querquedula crecca) (L. 129, keus; Śiv. 1811); cf. khyus 2. kis-pūt किसि-पूत । जलपक्षिभेदपोतकः m. a young teal.

kayās कयास् (= قیاس) m. judgment, opinion (Gr.M.).

kyut कितु or क्युत । अर्थे postpos. m. (pl. nom. kit किति; f. sg. kit कितु), for, for the sake of (Gr.Gr. 14; Gr.M.; W. 97, kiut); also forming advs. of time, see bel.

When used with the meaning of 'for', etc., kyut governs the dat., as in mōlis-kyut, for the father; mālēn-kyut, for the fathers. Like the postpositions of the gen., it is an adj., agreeing with the governing noun in gender, number, and case, as in mōlis-kyut pōn, water for the father; mōlis-kit gāv, a cow for the father; guris-kit rawa, blankets (nom. pl. m.) for the horse; mōlis-kita pōthē, books (nom. pl. f.) for the father (Gr.Gr. 44).

Similarly, if the governing noun should be in the dat., we should have mōlis-kitis pōnis, to the water for the father; mōlis-kisan gōv, to the cows for the father (Gr.Gr. 44), and so on for other cases. For instances of this use of kyut, see bel.

Special attention should be paid to the use of kyut with the infinitive and with the future passive participle of a verb. Used with the infinitive, it governs the dative in the ordinary way, as in yith pōthē paranas-kyut prang, a couch for reading this book (Gr.Gr. 114) (cf. esp. ninas-kyut, s.v. nyun). The fut. pass. part. has the same form as the infinitive, but is an adjective, its m. sg. nom. having the form karun, karon, or karun. This adjective, combined in apposition with kyut, and agreeing with it in gender, number, and case, forms a passive verbal adjective of necessity, fitness, or purpose, like the Latin gerundive; thus cyon^u-kyut^u, intended to be drunk, potable (p. 179a, l. 43). So paron^u-kyut^u pōstukh, a book (m. sg.) to be read, a book for reading (but we cannot say paron^u-kyut^u prang, as that would mean 'a couch to be read', not 'a couch for reading'); parūn^u-kit^u pūthⁱ, a book (f. sg.) to be read; ranānⁱ-kitⁱ hākh, vegetables (m. pl.) to be cooked, i.e. for being cooked; karanē-kita kāmē, works (f. pl.) to be done (Gr.Gr. 115, Gr.M.); khyon^u-kyut^u, (food) to be eaten, something to eat (K.Pr. 248); bēhun^u-kyut^u makān, a house to be dwelt in, in which to dwell (Rām. 591).

When used to form an adv. of time, kyut^u also governs the dat., but, being used adverbially, it often does not change its own form. As an adv. of time, it is more definite than kani. Thus, dā-phulayⁱ-kyut^u (p. 230b, l. 14) means, definitely, 'at the time of rice-blossoming', while dā-phulayⁱ-kani (p. 230b, l. 12) means 'in, or about, the time of rice-blossoming'. Kyut^u cannot be used in this sense with all words. Its chief use is to indicate a season, as ab. Other examples are bahāras-kyut^u, in the spring-time (p. 96b, l. 9); barsātas-kyut^u, in the rainy season (p. 127a, l. 40); bēli-wāpas-kyut^u, in the sowing season (p. 150b, l. 15); dōhaiṭhas-kyut^u, in (so-and-so's) sixty-second year (p. 201b, l. 38); drāgas-kyut^u, in a time of famine (p. 241b, l. 42), and so on. In this sense it is sometimes added either pleonastically or with the sense of 'for' to advs. of time. Thus, rāth, to-night; az rāth-kyut^u sāl, an invitation for to-night; rāth-kyut^u, to-night or by night (Gr.M.; H. iii, 1); pagāh-kyut^u, for to-morrow (Gr.M.).

kitⁱ किति m. pl. nom. chōkas-kitⁱ dawāh, medicines for the wound (Rām. 1308; similarly, Rām. 1505; H. v, 1; xi, 11).

kit^u कित् f. sg. nom. wōj^u kōrē-kit^u, a ring for the daughter (H. v, 1; so, x, 11; xi, 12).

kyut^u कियु m. sg. nom. dōhas-kyut^u, for a day, sufficient for a whole day (p. 200a, l. 47); biyis-kyut^u, for someone else (L.V. 61; so, Rām. 744; H. ii, 1; x, 5; xii, 4, 5, 11, 16, 24).

kyuth^u कियु or क्यु । कीदृशः pron. adj. (f. kish^u कियु), of what sort? of what kind? (Gr.Gr. 153; Gr.M.; L.V. 84, 85); as adv. how? (Gr.M.; L.V. 71; H. ii, 5). —hyuh^u —ह्यु (f. kish^u कियु हिशु), i.q. kyuth^u, what kind of? kyāh sanā kyuth^u hyuh^u, I wonder what kind of (Rām. 1074; cf. kyāh sanā, p. 500a, l. 43). —sanā —सना adj. i.q. kyuth^u, but with a shade of doubt in the question, quasi 'really of what sort?' (cf. Gr.Gr. 180-1). —tām —ताम, —tāmāth —तामथ, —tān तात्र, or —tānēth —तात्रथ । केनापि नाम्ना वक्तुमशक्यः, अत्यरोचकः adj., i.q. kyuth^u, but with a shade of doubt, quasi 'I wonder of what sort'; that which cannot be described by any name, indefinable (cf. kyuh^u tām, p. 500b, l. 22); (contemptuously) what sort of? i.e. very unpleasing, bad, worth nothing, of no use.

kyow^u क्यवु । गवेधुः m. (sg. dat. kēvis कविस), a kind of plant growing in marshes. According to L. 72 (kēv) it is Chaerophyllum sp., and is looked upon as an excellent substitute for carrots, both by the herdsmen and by the red bears. It has been identified at Kew as really Sagittaria sagittifolia, or Common Arrowhead, but possibly the name may be used for two different plants. For the manner in which its roots are joined together by a fibrous network, see kēvⁱ-rāth, bel., and cf. Śiv. 1807. —kaḍun —कडुन । गवेधुनिष्कासनम् m.inf. to root up one of these plants in the marshes. This is a long, slow business; hence, met. to spend a long time over completing any work.

kēvⁱ-gōg^uj^u कविव-ग्वग्व । आल्पाकारमूलविशेषः, अल्पालुकः f. a kind of turnip; a small potato. —gāsa —गास । मूलविशेषतुल्यम् m. the edible leaves of the kyow^u-plant. —muj^u —मुज । वालमूलिका f. a young tuber of this plant, used as a vegetable. It is globular in shape; cf. mujē-kyow^u, s.v. muj^u. —mōnd^u —म्वंड । मूलविशेषमहामूलम् f. a full-grown large tuber of this plant. It is also globular in shape. —nambal —नम्बल । मूलकविशेषोत्पत्तिस्थानम् f. a piece of marshy ground, in which this plant grows plentifully. —rāth —राठ । मूलविशेषव्रततिः f. (sg. dat. rāthi —राठि), lit. the tangled roots of this plant, i.e. an underground fibrous network spread over a wide area, made up of the roots of this plant all tangled together. —zag —ज़ग । धान्यविशेषः m. N. of a kind of paddy yielding a red grain when husked (L. 463, kai zag).

kyāzi क्याज़ि । किमर्थम् adv. inter. why? (El.; Gr.M.; L. 464, kyāza; W. 99; L.V. 96, 107; Śiv. 87, 312, 534, etc.; Rām. 190, 288, 669, 719, 1245; K. 383; H. iii, 1; v, 8; etc.); because (El.); yimi sabāba kyāzi, for this reason, because (Gr.M.); ti-kyāzi, because (Gr.M.; W. 99; H. viii, 7). —na —न । किमर्थम् न adv. why not?

kōzi क़ज़ि । कुत्सितवेलायाम् adv. at a bad time, in a time of calamities, etc., at an inauspicious time; at a wrong time, unseasonably. A contracted form of kō-vizi, q.v.

kazul क़ज़ुल् । कज्जलम् m. (sg. dat. kazalas कज़लस्), lamp-black, soot; as adj. sooty, black (YZ. 147).

kō-zan क़ज़न् m. a bad man, a wicked person, a sinner (K.Pr. 202).

kōzana क़ोज़न । न जाने किमिव adv. who knows? God knows! used in sentences such as kōzana kyāh bani tas, God alone knows what will become of him; hence, who knows how? God knows how! who knows by what means (L.V. 73, 74). kōzanāni क़ोज़ननि f. sg. abl. of sg. gen. how? by what means? (L.V. 72).

kō-zāth क़ज़ाथ् । कुत्सितजातिः adj. e.g. (as subst., sg. dat. -zātas ज़ातस्), of bad, or low, caste, low-born; used also, as a term of reproach, with reference to a well-born person who acts vilely, of a bad disposition, bad-natured (W. 110).

1 J. The tenth (or, if we count the aspirates ch and kh as separate letters, the twelfth) consonant of the Kāshmiri alphabet in the Roman character. It is the twenty-eighth (or, if we count t, th, and z, the thirty-first) consonant when written in the Sārādā or Nāgarī character, and the thirtieth consonant when written in the Perso-Arabic character. It is pronounced, as in India proper, with the tip of the tongue touching the front teeth, and not the gums, the resulting sound being softer and more dental than in English.

When this letter is immediately followed by a or by y (including ē, see art. ē), it is changed to j. Thus, wōl^a वोल, a large ring, but fem. wōj^a वोज, a small ring; wūl^a वुल, fickle; wōjēr वोजेर, fickleness.

lā १ privative particle, as in lā-makān مکان لا adj. with no abode, without a dwelling-place, in-existent (as an epithet of the Deity) (H. vii, 29).

1 म. The eleventh consonant of the Kāshmirī alphabet, the twenty-fifth (or, if we count ṣ, ṣh, and z, the twenty-eighth) consonant when written in the Śāradā or Nāgarī character, and thirty-first consonant when written in the Perso-Arabic character. It has the sound of the letter m in English. In schools its name is mōv mō मोव मा.

ma 1 म or mā मा (see bel.) । मा adv. prohibitive particle, used (Gr.Gr. 255) only with the pres. impve., as in ma kar, make thou not, mā karin, let him not make, the ben., as in ma bōyyēn, may it not be! God forbid! (Gr.Gr. 252), or, occasionally with the fut. ind. indicating a wish, as in mā lagaham (= lagakh + m), mayst thou not find thyself (H. v, 2). As in the last example, ma or mā is sometimes repeated, under the form of m, as a suffix added to the verb; cf. under mā, bel. It is not used with the pol. impve., with which ma-ta or ma-tā is employed; nor is it used with the fut. impve. or past impve., with which na is employed, as in kār'zi na, you must not make, kār'zihē na, you should not have made (Gr.Gr. 255; Gr.M.; W. 96, 151; YZ. 38; Śiv. 52, 425, 539, etc.; Rām. 24, 27, 29, 33, 46, etc.; K. 65; H. xii, 7).

ma-bā म-बा, please do not (Gr.Gr. 256); similarly ma-sō म-सो and other polite forms of prohibition (Gr.Gr. 256), both used in the same way as ma (L.V. 88; Rām. 1342, ma-sa).

ma-ta म-त or ma-tā म-ता । मा नाम adv. prohibitive particle, the same as ma, but generally used only with the pol. impve., as in mata (or matā) karta, please do not make (Gr.Gr. 255, 256; L.V. 53, where it has the force of a negative question; YZ. 142, 266; Śiv. 22, 28, 578, 1247, 1737, 1879 ff.; Rām. 1019; K. 34, 364, 378, 580, 906, 1107). Occasionally ma-ta is used with the pres. impve., as in Śiv. 525. As in the case of ma, ma-ta also may have the polite suffixes bā, sō, etc., added without affecting the sense, beyond adding a further tinge of politeness. Thus mata-bā म-त-बा, mata-sō म-त-सो, and so on (Gr.Gr. 256); matō मतो (Śiv. 553).

mā मा or (poet., H. v, 9) māh माह । मा नाम adv. the same as ma, ab., q.v. It is also used before or after a verb to indicate a question asked in hesitation (Gr.Gr. 256), as in karān mā chuh or mā chuh karān or mā karān chuh, I wonder if he is making, is he really making? According to El., in this sense it is never the first word in a sentence, but the above is the account given by I.K. VIII, i, 29 (Gr.M.; L.V. 89; Śiv. 23, 335, 575, 593, 795, 807, 1255, 1802, 1897; Rām. 754 ff., etc.; K. 38, 64, 505, 587, 1134, 1157, etc.; H. i, 2; v, 8, 9; vii, 20; viii, 9, 13; x, 5, 12; xii, 23). This word is also used as a negative in the apodosis of a conditional sentence, as in hargāh-ay wuchihe . . . mā mārihe, if he had seen . . . he would not have killed (H. viii, 10); hargāh-kiy sara karihe . . . mā diyihē hukum, if he had investigated . . . he would not have given the order (H. viii, 13).

As in the case of the purely prohibitive ma or mā, this dubitative mā may also be repeated, under the form of a verbal suffix, as in mā lōsem (= lōsi + m), I wonder if he is weary (Rām. 234).

ma 3 م, prep. with, along with, together with (used, esp. by Musalmāns, with borrowed Arabic or Persian words) (W. 90).

māo (El.), see māv.

mau मौ or mō मो, adv. (prohibition particle, i.q. ma, q.v., but more respectful) (L.V. 30, 36, 72; Śiv. 274, 1003, 1324, 1635, 1671, 1702, 1815; Rām. 727, 816, 1041, etc.). na mō, i.q. mō (Rām. 1231). Cf. mav, mōv.

mō 1 मो م m. hair; a single hair (Rām. 873); cf. mōy. mō-kalam موقلم m. a paint brush (Gr.M.). mō-yē-wāl मो-य-वाल m. hair, a head of hair (Rām. 1350, 1415); a single hair (Rām. 735).

mō 2 मो, see mau.

अनन्तपरिमाणम् m. 'fours of mōng', i.e. what seems a very little to turn out, on calculation to be immeasurably great, a trifle becoming immense.

The allusion is to a popular story, in which a king agreed to pay a physician a fee for curing his piles as follows: on the first square of a chessboard were to be placed four grains of mōng; on the second square four times that number, or 16; on the third square four times the number on the second square, or 64; on the fourth square four times the number on the third square, or 256; and so on through the 64 squares, the number on each square being four times that on the preceding square. The fee was to be the total amount of grains so placed.

The king looked upon this as a very trifling matter and gave the necessary orders; but when the total came to be calculated out it came to millions of maunds. Indeed, so great was the amount, that the king could not pay it, and had to make over his whole kingdom and private property in order to discharge the debt. -wor —वर् । मुद्गपिष्टकः m.

n न ७. The twelfth (or, if we count the aspirates ch and kh as separate letters, the fourteenth) consonant of the Kāshmirī alphabet in the Roman character. It is the twentieth (or, if we count ṣ, ṣh, and z, the twenty-third) consonant in the Śāradā or in the Nāgarī alphabet, and the thirty-second consonant in the Perso-Arabic alphabet as adapted to Kāshmirī. In schools it is called nastuv-nō नस्तुव-नो. It also, in the case of words directly borrowed from Sanskrit, represents the Sanskrit cerebral nasal ṇ ण, the sound of which does not occur in Kāshmirī, although Paṇḍits often write the character when it occurs in the original. Thus, the Sanskrit word guṇa गुण becomes gōn खन in Kāshmirī, but Paṇḍits commonly write it खण or गुण. It is pronounced nearly as in English, the sound varying slightly according to the letter which follows it. When, however, it precedes certain palatal letters, it tends to become palatalized. Before ū-mātrā and ē (i.e. ya) it becomes ñ ञ, as in yīran यीरन, an anvil, pl.nom. yīrūñ यीरूञ; from ton तन, thin, we have tañēr तजर, thinness; and from the verb ranun रनुन (first conjugation), to cook, we have a first past participle ron रन, with a feminine rūñ रूञ. When followed by y with any other vowel except a (in which case ya becomes ē), it also becomes ñ ञ, but the y disappears. Thus, the second past participle of ranun रनुन is ran + yōv रन + योव, and becomes rañōv रनोव. But these changes do not occur in the conjugation of verbs of the third conjugation. Thus, the second past participle of the verb banun वनुन (third conjugation), to become, is banyōv बन्योव, not bañōv बनोव. See Gr.Gr. 28, 29, 226; Gr.M., p. 22.

na न ८. नहि adv. particle of negation, equivalent to 'not', 'no', 'neither', 'nor'. In a direct sentence it is usually suffixed to the verb, as in gathi-na, he will not go; pok-na, he did not proceed; gayōv, he went, gayō-na, he did not go; chuh, he is, chuna, he is not (p. 159a, l. 14) (Gr.Gr. 177, 255; W. 96, 151; L.V. 35, 98, 104, etc.; Śiv. 5, 35, 45, etc.; Rām. 74, 77, 104, etc.; H. i, 6; ii, 1, 4, 8, 9, 11, etc.; and so elsewhere passim). When two verbs are both negated, the na is prefixed, not suffixed, to each, as in na gathi na diyi, he will neither go nor give.

This word is not used with the simple or the polite imperative (see ma), but is used as a prohibitive with the future imperative, as in dāp'zēm-na, you must not speak to me (H. v, 8); kār'zi-na, you must not make (H. viii, 1; xii, 6); wās'zi-na, you must not descend (H. xii, 11); māng'zēs-na, you must not demand from her (H. xii, 18).

In a subordinate sentence, na precedes the verb, as in tām' tāt' par, yuth^a na wuḍith gathi, he cut the feathers, so that it should fly away (Gr.M.).

When employed to negative a verbal adjective or noun, na precedes the word it negatives, as in na-banani, impossible; but, if the sentence, not the word is negated, na, as usual, is suffixed to the verb, as in chu-na banani, it is not possible.

With an indefinite pronoun, it usually precedes the pronoun, as in na kūh, no one (p. 389b, l. 38); na kēh, nothing (id., l. 40). Cf., however, kēh-na, nothing (p. 389b, l. 45; p. 390a, l. 18); kuni-na, nowhere (p. 453b, l. 26).

Similarly, it often precedes an interjection, as in na-bā, no, Sir! (is) not, Sir! (Gr.Gr. 102); na-dēd, no, Madam! (used in addressing a mother or elderly female) (W. 96); na-sa, no, Sir! (Śiv. 1247).

Used alone as interj. indicating negation, no! (K.Pr. 18).

Between two words a single na is often equivalent to 'neither . . . nor', as in ōr na yōr, neither there nor here (p. 41b, l. 16), and in such cases sometimes has a special idiomatic force, as in dāsh na dāsh, a person's entire property (apparently, what is lasting and what is not lasting) (p. 252b, l. 39); hōh' na prōh', (occurring) suddenly over and over again (p. 325a, l. 18); pēv na pēv, while in the act of falling (K.Pr. 175); cf. zēn nā zēn, bel. Or na may be repeated, as in na . . . na (or ta na), neither . . . nor (K.Pr. 46). So, na . . . ta na . . . त, neither . . . nor. na . . . na . . . ta, nor . . . nor . . . nor (L.V. 15). na danan ta mētran न दनन त म्यत्रन । न स्वार्थं न परार्थम् adv. neither for one's own profit nor for another's (e.g. expenditure, loss, etc.). na dazūn^a ta wuḍūn^a न दजून त वुजून । चित्ताखेदादिरहितम् f. neither being burnt nor being consumed by fire, the being unaffected by one's own, or another's, prosperity or adversity, stoicism.

na-ta 1 न-त adv. and not, nor (L.V. 37, 96, 97; Śiv. 1540; YZ. 7; K.Pr. 135). na-ta 2 न-त । यद्वा adv. not then, i.e. (if) not then, or else, otherwise, or (El.; W. 99; L.V. 19, 71; K.Pr. 150; Śiv. 171, 311, 593, etc.; Rām. 268, 1342, 1588; K. 559, 571, 1146, etc.; YZ. 83, 105, 119, 180); aki na-ta aki laṭi, at one time or another (Śiv. 1564). na-ta 3 न-त । नहि नाम adv. not verily, forsooth not (Rām. 63). na-tay न-तय् । अन्यथा, i.q. na-ta 2, ab. or else, otherwise (tay = ta + ay 2) (Śiv. 682; Rām. 103, 325, 401, etc.). na-zi न-जि, an emph. equivalent for na, as in na-zi pazi, it is not at all proper (K. 34; so K. 82, 453).

nā 1 ना, i.q. na, ab. (L.V. 2, 9, etc.). nā . . . nā, neither . . . nor (L.V. 7). zēn nā zēn, they are being born, (and) they are not being born, immediately on being born, while they are yet being born (L.V. 47); cf. pēv na pēv, ab. nā 2 ना (= na + a 3 or ā 1) adv. a negative interrogative suffix added to verbs, as in karān chunā (chuh + na + ā 1), does he not make? karyōn-nā, did he not make? karān chēkh-nā (na + a 3), does not thou (fem.) make? cf. a 3 (Gr.Gr. 180; L.V. 83; Śiv. 871, 882, 1096, etc.; Rām. 145, 152, 154, 329, 540, 1051, etc.; H. vi, 1; viii, 7; ix, 7, etc.; K. 369). As a negative interrogative, this word often has the force of an emphatic affirmative, like the English 'is it not good?' meaning 'it is very good' (Śiv. 573 ff., 651, 793, 838, 1134, etc.; Rām. 188, 193, 668, 757, 759; K. 101, 126, 1171).

nau नौ or nō नो adv. no certainly (in addressing a man. In addressing a woman, nāy, bel., is used) (W. 96; Rām. 216, 218, 293-4, etc.; H. vii, 23; xi, 15; K.Pr. 135).

nu . . . nu नु . . . नु, neither . . . nor (H. xii, 4).

nay 1 नय् (= na + ay 1) adv. a negative interrogative suffix, i.q. nā 2, but used when addressing a woman, as in karān chēkh-nay, dost thou (fem.) not make? cf. a 3, esp. p. 2a, l. 40 (Gr.Gr. 180). nay 2 नय (= na + ay 2) conj., a suffix indicating a negative supposition. If not, unless. It may be appended to a verb, as in karihē-nay, if he had not made, but is more usually attached to the subject of the sentence, as in rūd-nay pēyihē, if rain had not fallen; sunay (= suh + nay) karihē, if he had not made; cf. ay 2 (El. nai; Gr.Gr. 257; Śiv. 168, 634, 1236, etc.; Rām. 165, 338, 496, etc.; K. 1107, 1123; K.Pr. 46, 100). nay 3 नय (for 4, 5, see s.vv.) (= na + emph. y) not verily, not at all (Śiv. 46, 327, 348, 579, etc.; H. v, 5; ix, 6, 8, 10, 12, etc.; YZ. 23).

owing to, because of [in this sense more often governing the abl. (nishē, Rām. 29)].

C. Governing the abl., with the important exception that, in the case of singular masculine animate nouns, it optionally governs the dative, from near, from (Gr.Gr. 48, 49; W. 98, nishī) (nish, with abl., Śiv. 22, 125, 681, etc.; Rām. 83, 1304, 1386; with dat., Śiv. 431, etc.; Rām. 895, 1060, 1177, 1190; nishē, with abl., Śiv. 61, 99, 106, etc.; Rām. 2, 20, 27, 111-12, 174, etc.; H. vi, 12; vii, 2; K. 114, 212; with dat., Śiv. 30, etc.; Rām. 83, 424, 683, 895, 1347, etc.; K. 392, 576, 630); occasionally, in poetry, it takes the dative case even of an inanimate noun, as in wanas nishē, from the forest (Rām. 1198), phalis n°, (issued) from the seed (Rām. 1456); from, owing to, because of (nishē, L.V. 27, Rām. 802); with, by means of (rājē nish sēr, sated with royalty, Rām. 365; nāra nish, by means of fire, Rām. 1203; with dat., K. 573); from, beyond, more than (nishē, L.V. 48);

used after verbs of fearing or the like, as in chuh dāndas nishē khōtān, he is afraid of the bull (an. sg. m.) (Gr.M.); mōkalana nishē nā-wumēd, despairing of accomplishment (Gr.M.); (nish, with dat., Rām. 932).

Governing the abl. (or an. sg. dat.), or the abl. (or an. sg. dat.) of the genitive, it indicates comparison, as in rōpa nishē chuh sōn jān, gold is better than silver (Gr.Gr. 49); kañē-handi (or kañi) nishē chuh trakur, he is harder than a stone (id.) [nish, with abl., Rām. 270, 600 (tawa nish dōgan zīthī, twice as long as that), 771; cf. Rām. 352 (tawa nishē kō-na, why not than that, i.e. why not rather); with dat. Rām. 559].

ॐ न ज ॐ. The thirteenth (or, if we count the aspirates ch and kh as separate letters, the fifteenth) consonant of the Kāshmirī alphabet in the Roman character. It is the tenth consonant in the Śāradā or in the Nāgarī alphabet, and has no special place in the Perso-Arabic alphabet, in which it is usually represented by ۛ, as in ۛ for wuñ वुञ्; ۛ for sapiñ सपञ्; and ۛ for üñ^hkh अञ्ख.

This letter is of frequent occurrence in Kāshmirī, and its sound, differing from that of an English or Sanskrit ny, is that of the ñ in the Spanish word campaña, or of that of the gn in the French word campagne, being represented in the International alphabet by n̄.

In schools this letter is named khōna phutⁱ ñē खन फुटि ज. Kāshmirī Paṇḍits distinguish it from the Sanskrit ñ ज, and mark it with a subscribed dot (ञ्) to show that it is what they call aprasiddha, i.e. not used in Sanskrit. As, however, the Sanskrit letter never occurs except in conjunction with other palatal consonants, and as, in Kāshmirī, ज् is principally used by itself, and not in conjunction with other consonants, there is no danger of the two being confused, and in this Dictionary the dot is omitted, as in wuñ, written वुञ्, not वुञ्. Although thus considered aprasiddha न् ज is not (except in words borrowed directly from Sanskrit) the nasal corresponding to the other aprasiddha consonants ष ज्, ष ह्, and ष ज्. With these, n̄ न्, not ñ न्, is used, as in n̄ha न्ह, n̄ha न्ह, and n̄za न्ज. So, in Śiv. 1489, we have the Kāshmirī word pōñth पांन्ह, five, and also the borrowed Sanskrit word pañṣa पञ्च.

This letter seldom begins a word in Kāshmirī, and in the few cases in which it occurs as an initial, it shows a tendency to assume the sound of ny न्य, so that in nearly every case a word so beginning may be written with either n̄ न् or ny न्य, although the two characters have quite different pronunciations. Thus, the word ñōñ is sometimes written नञ् and sometimes न्यञ्.

This letter is, in the first place, the regular Tadbhara representative of a Sanskrit ny. Thus, Skt. dhānyam becomes the Kāshmirī dāñē; Skt. puṇyam, Ksh. pōñē; Skt. kanyakā, Ksh. kañēkh; and Skt. pāṇiyam (through pāṇiyam*, pāṇyam*), Ksh. pōñ. The letter is also found as the representative of a dental n̄ न् followed by ū-mātrā, ē, or y, for examples of which see art. n.

As in the case of y य and sh श, the inherent vowel of n̄ न् is ē, not a, so that ज् must be transliterated ñē, not ñā. When followed by ū-mātrā, as in n̄ न्, Paṇḍits commonly omit the ū-mātrā, which they look upon as inherent in the closed consonant, and write merely ज्. This, however, leads to confusion, as there would then be no distinction between, e.g. karawañ, the wages for doing, and karavūñ, she who does, if both are written करवज्, as is frequently done. It is therefore better to write each word fully, as in करवञ् and करवञ्, and this course is followed in the present Dictionary.

p प ب. The fourteenth (or, if we count the aspirates ch and kh as separate letters, the sixteenth) consonant of the Kāshmirī alphabet in the Roman character, the twenty-first (or, if we include ṭ, ṣh, and z, the twenty-fourth) consonant when written in the Śāradā or the Nāgarī character, and the third when written in the Perso-Arabic character. Its Kāshmirī name is paḍur पडुरि पा. It is sounded like an English p, but without any trace of the aspiration which is often heard in English when that letter is pronounced.

The aspirate of p is ph फ ہ, which is the twenty-second (or, if we include ṭ, ṣh, and z, the twenty-fifth) consonant of the Kāshmirī alphabet when written in the Śāradā or the Nāgarī character. Its Kāshmirī name is phariṇ फरिजू फा.

This aspirate letter ph is also used to represent the Persian and Arabic letter f ف, which occurs only in words borrowed from those languages. In such cases the ف is usually pronounced in Kāshmirī like an ordinary ph. Thus faqir فقير is usually pronounced phakir फकीर. The aspiration is, however, not so strong as in India proper, so that some persons pronounce the word, and even write it, pakir पकीर. In the middle or at the end of a word some people are inclined to retain the f-sound, or something like it, so that we often hear mupht मुफ्त pronounced muft, and māph माफ (for معاف) pronounced māf or, as in Persian, mu'āf.

The letters p and ph are two of the few Kāshmirī consonants which are never epenthetically affected by a succeeding vowel.

pā पा ب m. the foot, in Persian phrases, such as az-pā, (fallen) at the feet (Rām. 454); sar-ba-pā, from head to foot (YZ. 69); bar-pā بر پا or (Rām. 573) bar-pāh बर्-पाह, adj. e.g. fixed, established. Cf. pusht-ē-pā, s.v. pusht.

ph^hūn फहू or phuh^h फुहु । तीव्रपीडानुभवः अन्तःकोपः conj. 1 [1 p.p. f. ph^hū फहु or phuh^h फुहु; 2 p.p. f. ph^hhyēyē फह्येय or phuh^hhyēyē फुह्येय. This verb is impersonal, the logical subject being put in the dative, thus ph^hhi-y फहिय, there will be inward anger to thee, i.e. thou wilt be inwardly angry (Gr.Gr. 203). In tenses capable of expressing gender they are always put into the feminine, thus ph^hhān chē-s फहान छस, there is inward anger to him, he is inwardly angry (Gr.Gr. 182); ph^hh^s फहूस, he was inwardly angry (Gr.Gr. 215); the verbal noun or infinitive may be either masculine or feminine (Gr.Gr. 192). Thus ph^hhun 2 फहन् (q.v.) or ph^hh^un^u फहून्, inward anger, the former referring to the anger of a man, and the latter to that of a woman (Gr.Gr. 120). The causal of this verb is phuhanāwun, not phuh^hrāwun (Gr.Gr. 174)].

It will be observed that this word may mean either 'a single grain or other article' or 'a small quantity of such'. It often happens that, compounded with the same word it may take either sense, so that the meaning of the whole is in doubt. Thus, dachē-ph^o, a single grape, and a small collection of grapes, p. 185b, l. 46; dā-ph^o, p. 230b, l. 5; kara-ph^o, p. 466a, l. 12; kāshi-ph^o, p. 480a, l. 36; lāyē-ph^o, p. 543b, l. 3; macāma-ph^o, p. 548a, l. 22; mahā-ph^o, p. 548a, l. 22; mōkhta-ph^o, p. 561a, l. 15; makāyi-ph^o, p. 563b, l. 6. The plural phālī फलि is not used to indicate a small amount, but indicates indefinitely 'grains', 'small round articles', etc. (Gr.Gr. 164, Gr.M.).
